RAVANA DAHAN

'DON'T KILL,
BUT CONQUER'

Ravana Dahan is the tradition of burning the effigy of Ravana. The tradition symbolises the victory of good over evil.

The same was practiced at our campus where children wrote their negative quality on a chit and it was burnt along with the effigy .

The children excitedly enjoyed Ravan Dahan and celebrated the spirit of festivity.

I am an introvert person. I believe that learning is a lifelong journey, one that knows no age boundaries. As educators, we should never hesitate to acknowledge that we can learn from our students, regardless of their age. This mutual exchange of knowledge enriches our teaching and makes the educational process a dynamic and ever-evolving experience. Let's embrace the idea that, in this shared journey of education, we can all be both teachers and students, continuously expanding our horizons.
